

A diagram shaped like a house, representing the structure of a degree program. The roof is a large blue triangle containing the title. The main body of the house is divided into three vertical sections: a yellow section on the left, a blue section in the center, and an orange section on the right. Below these sections is a wide green base, and at the very bottom is a narrower green base. Each section contains text describing a part of the program and its credit value.
